EXPERIENCE

DOJOPY

Lima, Peru

Web development teacher

01/03/2022 - 30/06/2022

- Was in charge of the web fundamentals module, addressed to a group of 10 students. In this teaching process I was able to touch on topics such as Html, Css, Javascript and Reactjs which allowed them to be able to make landing page with API consumption.
- Was in charge of conducting mini workshops to develop a web application, which allowed students to observe and learn the logic that a front-end developer needs. Including best practices with version management with Github projects.
- Was in charge of planning the Html and Css calendar, taking into account topics such as semantics for Html and flexbox and grid for Css which allowed students to acquire the necessary knowledge to create responsive websites.
- Was in charge of planning the course called "programming for frontends" starting with javascript and Reactjs. Starting with issues of array manipulation, asynchrony, scope, javascript functions to building landing pages with functional components and applying the data base called Firebase for API consumption which allowed students to make their own websites
- Was in charge of deploying the project on servers like Netlify and Github Pages, which allowed us to simulate the process of development and use of a virtual platform.

LABORATORIA

Lima, Peru

Advisor and coach in javascript

03/01/2022 - 25/02/2022

- Was in charge of monitoring the "Laboratorios" which allowed collecting information on the status of progress and sending said data to other departments to generate metrics.
- Was in charge of carrying out the counseling sessions doing codereview which allowed the "Laboratorios" to raise the level of logic in the programming language
